Preamble

NC2ET'25 is the very first national conference aimed at bringing together major players in electrical engineering in Algeria around emerging and innovative technologies in this strategic field. This inaugural event offers a premier platform to explore the latest technological advances, share cutting-edge research results, and discuss future challenges and perspectives. The program includes: plenary conferences by international experts, parallel technical sessions, training workshops, exhibition of industrial innovations, and networking opportunities. It's the ideal occasion for academics, researchers, engineers, and professionals to stay informed about the latest technological breakthroughs, exchange innovative ideas, and forge fruitful collaborations.

By gathering national expertise around these emerging technologies, NC2ET'25 aims to stimulate innovation, promote knowledge transfer, and contribute to the sustainable development of the Algerian electrical sector.

The themes addressed during this conference will cover a wide spectrum of current topics such as intelligent power electronics, smart electrical grids, renewable energy conversion systems, transport electrification, industrial Internet of Things, cybersecurity of critical infrastructures, among others.
